If you're experiencing difficulties with a LiveOnline SAT course, The Princeton Review[®] can help!

Follow the tips below or reach out to our Student Support team for further guidance.

Troubleshooting Tips:

- If your class sessions are online, you will see LiveOnline listed within the class session on the schedule. The Launch Class link will appear 15 minutes before your class begins.
- You may need to refresh your browser or sign out and back in if a link has not appeared yet.
- LiveOnline Courses are best viewed with the latest version of Google Chrome™.
- Make sure your preferred mic/headset and camera devices are plugged into your computer and functioning properly before launching the classroom. You will need to give Google Chrome permission to access your mic and camera.
- You may need to download Adobe Flash®/Adobe Reader®.
- Be sure to allow pop-ups from The Princeton Review's website.

If you have an ongoing issue with one of our test prep products, contact our Student Support Center or call 1-866-877-7737 (1-866-TPR-PREP) to speak with a Student Support Representative.
